

PREFACE

My Awakening Journey to the Akashic Records

For as long as I can remember, I have felt an undeniable pull towards the spiritual and mystical realms. This connection was not something I consciously sought – it was as if it was embedded within me, part of my very essence. As I delved deeper into my spiritual practice, I began to uncover a profound truth: my soul had been on a continuous journey across lifetimes, each one dedicated to healing, teaching and spiritual mastery.

In numerous past lives, I embodied the roles of a healer and spiritual teacher. In some lifetimes, I worked humbly, offering healing to those in need, while in others, I stood as a guiding light, imparting spiritual wisdom to those eager to learn. Whether in ancient villages or great spiritual temples, my mission was always clear: to serve as a conduit for divine healing and knowledge.

What connected many of these lifetimes was the Akashic Records. I was guided by masters and teachers who taught me to access this sacred library of the soul. They helped me understand that the Records are not just a repository of knowledge – they are the very blueprint of our soul's journey, containing every thought, action and lesson we have experienced. The wisdom I gathered from them was invaluable and became a foundation for my soul's purpose across many lifetimes.

However, it was not until this current lifetime that I truly began to deepen my connection with the Akashic Records. This journey, which had remained dormant in some parts of me, was reignited through a profound personal experience – one that came from an unexpected source: my daughter, Bianca.

In 2017, Bianca went through a traumatic experience that shook my entire family. It was a time filled with deep fear, pain and confusion and, as a mother, it was one of the most challenging periods of my life. Watching my daughter navigate such an intense ordeal stirred something deep within me. I knew I had to step into the role of not just a mother, but also a guide and spiritual healer, helping Bianca heal on a deeper level.

It was during this period that I found myself turning to the Akashic Records, seeking guidance not only for Bianca, but for myself as well. The Records revealed layers of her soul's journey, explaining the karmic lessons she was meant to learn and the divine plan behind her suffering. They showed me her inner strength, resilience, and the sacred role she played in her own healing and the healing of others.

What I discovered in the Records was transformative. I realised that Bianca's experience was not just a random event, but a catalyst for growth and healing – for both her and for me. The Records illuminated her purpose and, through this, I also began to remember my own. The wisdom I had accumulated in past lives as a healer and teacher resurfaced, and the Records became my primary tool for facilitating not just Bianca's healing, but also my own spiritual growth.

As I worked with the Akashic Records, I began to recall vivid memories of my past lives. I saw myself in different times and places, studying under great masters of the Akashic Records, learning sacred practices that were passed down through generations. These masters were the ones who helped me harness the power of the Records, teaching me to access their wisdom and use it for healing and spiritual growth.

In one of my visions, I found myself in a temple filled with glowing scrolls, each one imbued with knowledge from the highest realms. The masters guided me to one particular scroll, its light pulsating with energy. As I read, a wave of recognition washed over me – I had known this information before. It was a call to continue my work in the present lifetime, to teach and heal, just as I had done before.

These memories and experiences were not just about learning – they were a reminder of my soul's mission. The Akashic Records had always been part of my journey, and now, in this life, they were beckoning me to step into my fullest potential. I knew that my work with the Records was not just for my own healing; it was part of a larger purpose to guide others on their spiritual paths.

As I deepened my connection with the Akashic Records, the calling to share this wisdom with others grew stronger. I knew it was time to step into the role I had played in many past lives – as a teacher of the Akashic Records. Just as I had been taught by the masters before me, I now found myself stepping into the same sacred role of guiding others to access and understand the Records.

Becoming a teacher of the Akashic Records felt like a natural progression of my soul's work. It was not only recognition of my past experiences, but also an affirmation of my present purpose. The Records had shown me that I was ready to help others connect with their soul's wisdom, to guide them through the process of healing and transformation, and to assist them in navigating their own karmic paths.

Now, as a teacher of the Akashic Records, I have the privilege of assisting others' access to this sacred space, helping them tap in to the divine wisdom that is available to all. I share with my students the same teachings that were imparted to me by the masters – how to access the Records with integrity, humility and compassion, and how to use this knowledge to heal and align with one's soul's purpose.

Through my work, I have seen first-hand the transformative power of the Akashic Records. The guidance, healing and wisdom they provide are life-changing and, the more I work with them, the deeper I understand their potential for growth and enlightenment. As I teach, I witness my students undergo profound shifts in their understanding of themselves and their place in the universe. It is a humbling and rewarding experience to help others uncover their own divine blueprint and live in alignment with their soul's true purpose.

Today, my work as a teacher of the Akashic Records is both my calling and my mission. Bianca's experience led me back to the Akashic Records in a way that deepened my own healing and spiritual growth, but it also guided me to a larger purpose. It awakened a remembrance of my soul's mission – to heal, to teach and to guide others on their spiritual journeys.

The Akashic Records have become an essential part of my daily life. They are a source of guidance, comfort and healing for me, my students and everyone with whom I work. Each time I access the Records, I am reminded of the infinite wisdom they contain, and the limitless possibilities they offer for growth and transformation.

Looking back on my journey, I feel deep gratitude for the Akashic Records and for the path that has led me to this point. From my past lives as a healer and teacher to the powerful guidance I received during Bianca's trauma,

I now stand as both a student and teacher of the Records, continuing the sacred work that has transcended lifetimes.

As I guide others through their own journeys, I remain open to the infinite wisdom of the Akashic Records, trusting that they will continue to illuminate the path ahead for myself and for those I serve. Through the Records, I am reminded of the interconnectedness of all beings and the divine blueprint that binds us together.

The journey is far from over and, with each step, I move closer to my soul's purpose. I am grateful for the Records, for Bianca's healing, and for the opportunity to help others find their way to healing and wholeness. The Akashic Records have shown me the endless possibilities for transformation, and I embrace each moment of this journey with humility, love and deep reverence.
